The Southwest Women's Chorus is looking for more women who can carry a tune, enjoy choral music, have choral blending voices, and are willing to dedicate their time and effort to a quality group. Reading music, although desirable, is not required. The chorus was founded in 2000 to provide a place for women who are sincere in their desire to experience the art of quality choral singing in the nurturing environment of a women's group and who are willing to work for it. Ages in the group have ranged from the teens to the 80's; experience levels are from beginner on up.

The group sings classical, spiritual, gospel, folk, old standards, and anything else interesting. Members learn interpretation, vocal technique, and sight-singing and have fun at the same time. Two concerts a year are presented: Christmas and late Spring. The group is directed by Bill Paisner, who was also the founder and director of the Temecula Vintage Singers, and the Chorus Master for the Inland Valley Opera. The Spring concert this year will be "From Dames to Divas" – exploring the growth of women throughout the ages. Our recent Christmas concert was sold out – this is a successful, vibrant group.
